Why: PhD students and researchers from all academic disciplines that had to flee from war, violence and political persecution frequently face similar problems: They want to continue their scientific work but are often unfamiliar with the German research landscape, the academic system as well as the local funding culture. In many cases, they have to rebuild their academic networks.

The Berlin4Ukraine-event aims to present basic information on the structures and key players of the German scientific system, on the major resources available for refugee researchers and scholars at risk in particular, as well as information on the German science funding system in general. In addition, the event provides networking opportunities for researchers from Ukraine and from Berlin.

Who: Academics, Ph.D. students, researchers, and science managers from Ukraine, but also researchers and professionals from research institutes in Berlin

Hygiene rules to contain the SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus will apply: Please provide a negative COVID-19 test result at the entrance that is not older than 24 hours. Please wear a FFP2-mask while moving in the building.
